Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI)

- The MBTI test (Myers–Briggs Type Indicator) is the most popular personality test, well-used in the workplace.
- Many are using it as a tool to hire the right employees, while others are even finding career inspiration according to their personality type.
- The various combinations are analyzed through the answers of various questions that define 16 different types of personality.
- The test takers are divided into introverts and extroverts, thinkers and feelers, who are whether sensing or intuitive and judging or perceptive.

Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI)

- The Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI) is used widely to try to classify personality traits based on Carl Jung's work on psychological typology.
- Many psychologists do not agree that the MBTI provides a reliable assessment of personality.
- Nevertheless, the Myers-Briggs personality test is taken by around two million people per year through 10,000 private companies, 2,500 colleges, and 200 government agencies in the United States.
- The Myers-Briggs Type Indicator tries to classify people into one of 16 personality types.
- The MBTI test uses four traits which have two complementary aspects to arrive at the 16 classifications.

Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI)

- According to Myers-Briggs, a person who turns to others to increase energy is an Extrovert (E), whereas those who turn inward are Introverts (I).
- Those who acquire information in a creative way are Intuitive (N), whereas those who take in information pragmatically are Sensing (S).
- People who make decisions seeking harmony are Feeling (F), but those seeking objective truth are classified as Thinking (T).
- Persons preferring to act and get closure are Judging (J), whereas those who stay open and adapt are Perceiving (P).
- Using these categories, a person who is extroverted, intuitive, feeling and judging would be classified as an ENFJ personality.

What's Your Personality Type?

Use the questions on the outside of the chart to determine the four letters of your Myers-Briggs type.
For each pair of letters, choose the side that seems most natural to you, even if you don't agree with every description.

1. Are you outwardly or inwardly focused? If you:

- Could be described as talkative, outgoing
- Like to be in a fast-paced environment
- Tend to work out ideas with others, think out loud
- Enjoy being the center of attention

then you prefer
E
Extraversion

- Could be described as reserved, private
- Prefer a slower pace with time for contemplation
- Tend to think things through inside your head
- Would rather observe than be the center of attention

then you prefer
I
Introversion

2. How do you prefer to take in information? If you:

- Focus on the reality of how things are
- Pay attention to concrete facts and details
- Prefer ideas that have practical applications
- Like to describe things in a specific, literal way

then you prefer
S
Sensing

- Imagine the possibilities of how things could be
- Notice the big picture, see how everything connects
- Enjoy ideas and concepts for their own sake
- Like to describe things in a figurative, poetic way

then you prefer
N
Intuition

3. How do you prefer to make decisions? If you:

- Make decisions in an impersonal way, using logical reasoning
- Value justice, fairness
- Enjoy finding the flaws in an argument
- Could be described as reasonable, level-headed

then you prefer
T
Thinking

- Base your decisions on personal values and how your actions affect others
- Value harmony, forgiveness
- Like to please others and point out the best in people
- Could be described as warm, empathetic

then you prefer
F
Feeling

4. How do you prefer to live your outer life? If you:

- Prefer to have matters settled
- Think rules and deadlines should be respected
- Prefer to have detailed, step-by-step instructions
- Make plans, want to know what you're getting into

then you prefer
J
Judging

- Prefer to leave your options open
- See rules and deadlines as flexible
- Like to improvise and make things up as you go
- Are spontaneous, enjoy surprises and new situations

then you prefer
P
Perceiving

16 Meyer-Briggs's personality types

Extraverted (E) vs. Introverted (I)

- E = Extroverts — like to spend time with others; expressive
- I = Introverts — like to spend quiet time; thoughtful and reserved

1. Are you outwardly or inwardly focused? If you:

- Could be described as talkative, outgoing
- Like to be in a fast-paced environment
- Tend to work out ideas with others, think out loud
- Enjoy being the center of attention

then you prefer

E
Extraversion

- Could be described as reserved, private
- Prefer a slower pace with time for contemplation
- Tend to think things through inside your head
- Would rather observe than be the center of attention

then you prefer

I
Introversion

Extraversion – Introversion signifies the source and direction of a person's energy expression.

An extravert's source and direction of energy expression is mainly in the external world, while an introvert has a source of energy mainly in their own internal world.

Sensing (S) vs. Intuition (N)

- S = Sensors — trust mostly their 5 senses; more practical
- N = Intuitives — have an abstract thinking; more creative

2. How do you prefer to take in information? If you:

- Focus on the reality of how things are
- Pay attention to concrete facts and details
- Prefer ideas that have practical applications
- Like to describe things in a specific, literal way

then you prefer

Sensing

- Imagine the possibilities of how things could be
- Notice the big picture, see how everything connects
- Enjoy ideas and concepts for their own sake
- Like to describe things in a figurative, poetic way

then you prefer

N
Intuition

Sensing – Intuition

represents the method by which someone perceives information.

Sensing means that a person mainly believes information he or she receives directly from the external world.

Intuition means that a person believes mainly information he or she receives from the internal or imaginative world.

Thinking (T) vs. Feeling (F)

- T = Thinkers — tend to be logical and well-reasoned
- F = Feelers — make more decisions with heart; more emotional

3. How do you prefer to make decisions? If you:

- Make decisions in an impersonal way, using logical reasoning
- Value justice, fairness
- Enjoy finding the flaws in an argument
- Could be described as reasonable, level-headed

then you prefer

T
Thinking

- Base your decisions on personal values and how your actions affect others
- Value harmony, forgiveness
- Like to please others and point out the best in people
- Could be described as warm, empathetic

then you prefer

F
Feeling

Thinking – Feeling

represents how a person processes information.

Thinking means that a person makes a decision mainly through logic.

Feeling means that, as a rule, he or she makes a decision based on emotion, i.e. based on what they feel they should do.

Judging (J) vs. Perceiving (P)

- J = Judging — like planning; dislike disorganisation
- P = Perceivers — flexible and spontaneous; more open-minded

4. How do you prefer to live your outer life? If you:

- Prefer to have matters settled
- Think rules and deadlines should be respected
- Prefer to have detailed, step-by-step instructions
- Make plans, want to know what you're getting into

then you prefer

J
Judging

- Prefer to leave your options open
- See rules and deadlines as flexible
- Like to improvise and make things up as you go
- Are spontaneous, enjoy surprises and new situations

then you prefer

P
Perceiving

Judging – Perceiving

reflects how a person implements the information he or she has processed.

Judging means that a person organizes all of his life events and, as a rule, sticks to his plans.

Perceiving means that he or she is inclined to improvise and explore alternative options.

What are the Personality Types in the IT team?

<https://medium.com/@elly.panayotova/what-are-the-personality-types-in-the-it-team-3375cba19b39>

Software Engineers

- Usually, software engineers provide a feasible solution to a client's request for a software development project.
- Software engineers create these solutions by using engineering principles and guidance by their project leaders.
- The Inspector (ISTJ) personality type makes the perfect match to this position.
- Typically, ISTJs rely on their technical skills, while using their abilities to understand the requirements.
- Serious, respectful and hard-working, the Inspector tends to be fulfilled by completing his tasks and meeting his obligations.
- He is happy to follow orders and instructions, looking up to authority.
- They are dedicated to their work and usually going the that extra mile to prove themselves best for the job.

Elly Panayotova, Sep 1, 2018

Working in an IT company, I have observed IT employees, their level of performance and inclusion.

After I have tested coworkers with the MBTI test, I researched the trends in personality types in software development companies all around the world.

After gathering all of this insight, both theoretical and practical, I saw some impressive patterns in employees personality type and their level of contribution in different positions.

Thus I gathered some useful information about what are the types fitting best four of the job positions in the field.

Software Developers

- I identified that developers with the Craftsman (ISTP) personality type occurred to be the best fit for the position.
- They are the ones who have stayed longer than others with us, satisfied with their responsibilities.
- Their main tasks are to design, write and try-out software systems.
- The creation and maintenance of these systems requires logical and creative thinking. ISTPs are always well reasoned, creative and realistic.
- Besides, they are analytical and love tangible results.
- At work people with this personality type are usually practical, flexible and innovative.
- The programmers have to master, install and edit applications that gives them the freedom to manipulate and utilize technical tools.
- Naturally, they are highly interested and intuitive about machines and tend to take risks in order to create new technology.

Project Managers

- The essential skills for a IT project manager are good leadership, focus on communication, strategic thinking and organisation.
- There is no doubt, they should be persistent on the way to success, ready to face bugs, challenges and dissatisfying results.
- I think that their personality type, similar to CEOs, are matching the abilities of the Executive (ESTJ). Why?
- Firstly, these type of people are dedicated, responsible and honest.
- Secondly, at work they hold themselves to the highest standards, ready to take charge and speak out their ideas.
- Further, they are experts at laying constructive criticism and applying new methods of work. They are said to be satisfied when helping others and giving instructions to the team.
- ESTJs, as project managers, would be persistent in completing their obligations while responsibly delegating the tasks within their subordinates.
- Indeed, the Executive has no tolerance for people who are lazy as their top priority, being leaders, is to be efficient at any cost.
- As for their social skills, ESTJs are great project managers because they are loyal, supportive and easygoing.

Product Owners

- Product owners are usually key stakeholders who carry out the project's methodology to the scrum team.
- Their most desirable skills are communication and technical knowledge.
- Seemingly, the Protagonist (ENFJ) are great communicators with strong intuition and inspiration, who would make a good fit as product owners.
- Moreover, these people are often on leading positions, having the urge to solve problems at their best.
- The product owner must be tactical, qualified and committed, while having the social abilities to push the whole team forward.
- ENFJs are specialists at performing tasks professionally, creating an organised team, motivated to succeed.
- Besides they have strong work values that they could easily share and develop in a team.
- Hence, together with their intelligence, if delegated to be product owners in an IT company, they are capable of fulfilling the requirements of the assigned projects.
